Em quase duas décadas de trabalho, o projeto Meros do Brasil tem oferecido os principais subsídios para a recuperação das populações de meros na costa brasileira. Os meros (Epinephelus itajara) são a maior espécie de garoupa do Oceano Atlântico e a primeira espécie de peixe marinho a ser protegida integralmente no país.

Estudos de biologia da conservação, biologia populacional, poluição marinha, genética, valoração ambiental e aquacultura têm contribuído com a criação de políticas públicas direcionadas aos ambientes marinhos-costeiros e aos meros.

O Meros do Brasil está presente em nove estados onde realiza ações de comunicação, educação ambiental e pesquisa científica. As atividades estão alinhadas com a Década do Oceano (2021-2030) e com os Objetivos do Desenvolvimento Sustentável (ODS), e buscam envolver toda a sociedade. Desde 2006, conta com o patrocínio da Petrobras.
